New course commencing 2012

Nourishing Early Childhood Parenting and working with young children.

This new course, based upon the work of Rudolf Steiner, is designed for parents and people working in the Early Childhood sector: playgroups, kindergartens, childcare and early learning centres.

The program provides participants with a comprehensive overview of child development based upon the picture of human development given by Rudolf Steiner.

In addition the course offers participants inspiration, ideas, tools and practical experience in bringing age appropriate activity to the early childhood setting in which they work.

We will explore topics, such as:

- Protecting the senses
- The environment and natural world
- The development of the imagination
- Creative play
- The link between movement and learning
- Imitation
- Rhythm and routine
- School readiness
- Celebration of festivals
- Storytelling
- Morning Circle, singing, games and movement activities

Format: each evening consists of a lecture/discussion and an artistic or movement activity.

When: Part-time for one year, each Wednesday evening over four terms, from 7.00-9.30 p.m.

Where: Melbourne Rudolf Steiner Seminar, 37A Wellington Park Drive, Warranwood, 3134.
